

State Agencies' Transition Collaborative of Maryland (SATC-MD)

Through a competitive selection process, Maryland was awarded five years of intensive technical assistance from the National Technical Assistance Center on Transition (NTACT) to support efforts in improving the state-level coordination of transition services leading to an increase in employment and postsecondary education outcomes for all students and youth with disabilities in Maryland. Through NTACT's support, SATC-MD's purpose is to assist Maryland's State Education Agency, Local Education Agencies, State Vocational Rehabilitation (VR), and VR service providers to implement evidence-based and promising practices ensuring Maryland students with disabilities, including those with significant disabilities, graduate prepared for success in postsecondary education and employment.

SATC-MD focuses on the values and systems alignment needed to support all youth with disabilities and their families to successfully transition from school to Community, Career and/or College.

In Maryland, youth with Disabilities receiving special education and related services through an Individualized Education Program (IEP) may exit their educational program one of two ways: with a High School Diploma or a Certificate of Program Completion. Over the past several years, roughly 30% of the total student population (ages 3-21) with an IEP are transition-age youth (ages 14-21) who are receiving transition services that ensure they exit school connected to postsecondary education and/or employment; however many of them will not be eligible for, or face waiting lists for services. SATC-MD is working to ensure all students with disabilities have a post-school pathways and exit school connected to that path.
