Title: MDPCP Healthcare Transformation - Behavioral Health Intern

Main Purpose:

The MDPCP Healthcare Transformation—Behavioral Health internship offers a unique learning experience for a current graduate student interested in public health, health policy, and behavioral health. You'll have the opportunity to gain valuable resume experience with an innovative value-based payment mechanism, enhance your oral and written communication skills, identify stakeholder needs, and develop consumable guidance materials for a healthcare audience. You'll also be involved in research, creating presentations, shadowing employees, and providing a comprehensive understanding of the need for behavioral health services in primary care.

Our MDPCP Healthcare Transformation Behavioral Health intern will be part of our Maryland Primary Care Program (MDPCP) Management Office and responsible for supporting the integration of behavioral health initiatives into primary care practices. As an Intern, you will support primary care practices in best practices by creating implementation guides, facilitation of practice meetings, and other initiatives. Depending on the Intern's other experience and interest, you may contribute to additional care transformation initiatives within MDPCP and support the MDPCP team in different work areas, including data reports and research.
