

The FDA has several information resources for industry stakeholders to use to evaluate domestic and international suppliers. Here is a snapshot.

▶ THE FDA INSPECTION CLASSIFICATION DATABASE

Identifies the compliance status of domestic and foreign firms that were inspected by the FDA. The data can be searched by the firm's name, date of the inspection, and the classification of the inspection outcome:

- NAI - No Action Indicated which signifies that an inspection was conducted and no objectionable conditions were noted
- VAI - Voluntary Action Indicated which signifies that an inspection was conducted where objectionable conditions were noted that the Agency is allowing the firm to voluntarily correct
- OAI - Official Action Indicated which signifies that an inspection was conducted where significant objectionable conditions were noted that warranted regulatory action by the Agency.

▶ FDA DATA DASHBOARD

Similar to the inspections database, this also includes approved voluntary qualified importers (VQIP), compliance actions by firm, Accredited Third-Party Certification Program (TPP) participants, recalls, and import refusals.

This information also includes the number of foreign and domestic inspections by year, inspection classifications by year, the number of inspections within each state, inspection classifications by product type, and details about the types of objectionable conditions for each inspected firm (firm profile).

Import Alerts can be viewed by country/area, industry, number, and date published. There is also a page for the Number of Import Alerts by Country/Area.

▶ THE OUTBREAKS OF FOODBORNE ILLNESS PAGE

Includes summary reports for significant outbreak investigations by year. It also includes information about ways to protect yourself from foodborne illness including food safety for at-risk groups and safe food handling.

The Warning Letters page contains redacted copies of warning letters issued by the FDA and can be searched or filtered by issuing office and date.

▶ THE RECALLS, MARKET WITHDRAWALS, & SAFETY ALERTS PAGE

Provides information gathered from press releases and other public notices about certain recalls of FDA-regulated products.
