

Trending Leadership & Management Topics

Overview:

This new offering through the Managing Matters program exposes a management team to the best in current leadership and management thinking through prerecorded presentations from internationally/nationally recognized experts. Many of the speakers have books on current best-seller lists that address issues faced by leaders in a constantly changing environment.

Before and after each prerecorded presentation, an instructor facilitates discussion and activities to engage the management team in the content and to relate it to their specific management environment.

New topics are added and posted on this website semi-annually. Click here to see the topics for the current period.
