RESIDENTIAL REHABILITATION PROGRAM MANAGED INTERVENTION PLAN (MIP)

The following individual is at risk for losing his or her placement in the Residential Rehabilitation Program. A summary description and history of the reasons for this action are included, as well as the RRP staff interventions up to this point. The intent of developing this intervention plan is to provide a coaching experience for our consumers so that they can be successful in their time with us, instead of having to be discharged for rule violations/code of conduct. As opposed to immediate discharge, the team should explore with the individual what the alternatives are, how they can best help, and what strategies need to be implemented in order to retain the individual in services. Based on the history presented below, a MIP meeting will be held to develop a comprehensive written plan to prevent discharge from services. If discharge from services should occur, it does not bar the individual or family from further assistance at a later date. Referrals must be made to alternative programming for the individual.

Should this plan be successful, amendments can be made at the review times. Should this plan be unsuccessful, you may receive a 30 day discharge notice, which you may appeal using the RRP's grievance process found in your Consumer Handbook. If you are living in the RRP, staff will assist you during these 30 days in securing housing. Housing options may include other residential rehabilitation programs, a homeless shelter, etc. Adequate housing is not guaranteed and will not affect your discharge status. Once discharged from the RRP program, housing is solely your responsibility.
