

Provider news: Early elective delivery new claim edit process

Beginning June 1, 2022, your health plan will be implementing a new Early Elective Delivery (EED) claim submission process, which will capture non-medically necessary EEDs and, at the same time, distinguish uncomplicated spontaneous labor/vaginal deliveries at 37 to 38 weeks' gestation. This new process will allow claims for deliveries precipitated by spontaneous labor and resulting in a delivery less than 39 weeks to be more efficiently and clearly identified. Please review the entire provider update for detailed claim submittal information on the Maternal Child Services page of the provider website.
